American Recovery and Reinvestment Act \(ARRA\)
Navy Project List

Doing Business with NAVFAC

Welcome to the Home Page of the Chief Engineer and Capital Improvements Business Line. We have an active program in support of the Navy and its broad-based mission. The Chief Engineer is the final technical authority for the Navy, and provides the highest level of interdisciplinary engineering consultation, guidance, expertise, and continuity in the Command. The Chief Engineer provides the Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) and its customers leadership, expertise, management, and specialized services for the following:

- Development and implementation of engineering concepts, practices, programs and advanced technologies for improvement of design, construction, and facilities management activities
  - NAVFAC 2007 Design Awards Program
- Associated strategic liaison necessary for the accomplishment of the above
- Development of policy and guidance, and providing advice and technical assistance to all of NAVFAC. These policies are in keeping with laws, regulations, and higher-level policy requiring responsible engineering practices that ensures that facilities designs meet appropriate standards of health, safety and engineering criteria.
- Professional engineering community management

Joseph E. Gott, P.E.

Questions?

- Learn more about NAVFAC ...

1. Visit our webpage @ www.navfac.navy.mil
2. Go to "Organization" Tab
3. Select desired NAVFAC component
4. Go to "Contact Us/Visitors"

The 'Organization' dropdown menu is open, showing a list of components: NAVFAC Worldwide, Headquarters, NAVFAC Atlantic, NAVFAC Pacific, Specialty Centers, NAVFAC Europe and Southwest Asia, NAVFAC Mid-Atlantic, NAVFAC Midwest, NAVFAC Northwest, NAVFAC Southeast, NAVFAC Southwest, and NAVFAC Washington. To the right of the dropdown is a 'Main Business Lines' section with a tree view of services including Base Development, Facilities Planning, Project Development, Use Lease, Improvements, (In-House), Tech. Service, Engineering, Environmental, and Real Estate.
